“To Serve Sri Lankan Migrant Workers Better”

Foreword

Sri Lanka's Diplomatic Missions play a vital role in safeguarding the rights of Sri Lankans employed outside the country. In countries that employ a large number of Sri Lankans, primarily in low skilled categories of labour, these Missions are expected to provide myriad services including addressing migrant worker grievances. The Sri Lanka National Labour Migration Policy recognises this important role played by Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions in labour receiving countries in safeguarding the rights and ensuring the protection of Sri Lankan workers.

The International Labour Organization ILO through the project titled “Promoting decent work through good governance, protection and empowerment of migrant workers: Ensuring the effective implementation of the Sri Lanka National Labour Migration Policy” supports the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion and Welfare (MFEPW) to take forward the commitments in the Sri Lanka National Labour Migration Policy. The project is financed by through Swiss Development Corporation.

In 2011, with the aim of improving of the current system of migrant worker grievance handling in Sri Lanka and in Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions in labour-receiving countries, two studies were commissioned to review grievance redress mechanisms available to Sri Lankan migrant workers within Sri Lanka and in countries of employment.

The two reviews were titled:

1. Strengthening Grievance and Complaint Handling Mechanisms to Address Migrant Worker Grievances in Sri Lanka: A Review and Analysis of Mechanisms
2. Promoting decent work through good governance, protection and empowerment of Sri Lankan migrant workers : A review of operational guidelines, procedures and process of Diplomatic Missions in labour receiving countries

Both studies highlighted the need to lay down standard operational guidelines, incorporating existing guidelines and practices and to fill any gaps in the system relating to providing services to migrant workers. In keeping with this task, the Secretary of the MFEPW appointed a committee of experts with experience serving in Diplomatic Missions in destination countries to facilitate the formulation of an Operational Manual for Diplomatic Missions to address migrant worker issues. The committee members are comprised of representatives of the MFEPW, Sri Lanka Bureau of Foreign Employment (SLBFE), Ministry of External Affairs, and the Ministry of Labour and Labour Relations (ML&LR).

In support of this process, a regional consultation on welfare and protection of migrant workers was held in May 2012 in Amman, Jordan to share the findings and recommendations of the two review reports. Views of relevant officers i.e. Diplomatic Officers, Labour Attaches and Labour Welfare Officers, were obtained on the findings and recommendations were gathered for the drafting of operational guidelines to be followed in Diplomatic Missions to address migrant worker issues including migrant worker grievances.

The consultation contributed to strengthening knowledge and raising awareness of international standards on the rights of migrant workers; laws applicable to expatriate workers in Middle Eastern countries for protection of their rights; and priority issues on labour migration faced by the Government and Missions, including: the effectiveness of bilateral agreements/Memoranda of Understanding (MOUs) entered into with Middle Eastern countries, standard employment contracts, and future labour migration flows.

The regional consultation brought together, 67 participants, which included Hon. Dilan Perera, Minister of Foreign Employment Promotion & Welfare; Secretaries of the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion & Welfare, the Ministry of External Affairs, and the Ministry of Labour and Labour Relations; and Ambassadors, High Commissioners, Consul Generals, and Honorary Consuls of Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions in the Middle East as well as Cyprus, Singapore, Malaysia and the Maldives. The Chairman, the Sri Lanka Bureau of Foreign Employment, senior officials of MFEPW and SLBFE, Labour Counselors, and Labour Welfare Officers of Diplomatic Missions also participated, providing valuable inputs to the process. ILO regional experts from Geneva and regional offices in Beirut and Bangkok, as well as staff from the ILO Colombo Office, also participated.

The Secretaries of all three Ministries who attended the regional consultation, while endorsing the importance of the Consultation and collaboration, urged their respective staff to give due attention to the guidelines as well as the presentations of the ILO experts. Minister Hon. Dilan Perera emphasized the importance of having a set of suitable guidelines in handling routine operations related to migrant worker affairs in destination countries.

The ILO facilitated the process of developing and finalizing this Operational Manual for Labour Sections of Sri Lankan Missions in labour-receiving countries, which guides officers on how to attend to the day to day work of the Section more efficiently and effectively. The Manual includes sample forms in the English, Sinhala, and Tamil languages to guide the labour sections and streamline the operations related to Sri Lankan migrant workers.

The Sub-Committee for drafting the Operational Manual was comprised of Mrs Padmini Ratnayake, former Additional Secretary of the Ministry of Labour and former Labour Counsellor of the Sri Lankan High Commission in Singapore, present Coordinating Secretary to the Secretary, ML&LR and Member of the National Advisory Committee on Labour Migration; Mr D.Swarnapala, Additional Secretary of the MFEPW and Member of the National Advisory Committee on Labour Migration; Mr D.D.P. Senanayake, Deputy General Manager, Foreign Relations, SLBFE; Mr L.K. Ruhunage, former Additional General Manager, SLBFE and former Labour Counsellor Sri Lankan Consulate in Dubai, United Arab Emirates; and Mr W.M.S. Bandara, former Actg. Director General, Consular Affairs Division, MEA.

1. General Introduction

The development benefits of labour migration depend on the degree to which the migrants are protected and empowered by origin and destination countries. During the three main stages of the labour migration process, that is, pre-migration, in-service, and post-migration, the rights and welfare of migrant workers must be promoted. Although their specific responsibilities may differ, origin and destination countries have a shared responsibility to protect and promote the rights and welfare of migrant workers. For continuous monitoring of the treatment and welfare of their citizens in destination countries, one of the most effective means of intervention and protection that can be performed by origin countries is the utilization of labour welfare officers attached to their diplomatic Missions.

The most trustworthy place for migrant workers to seek assistance during their stint in a foreign land is the Diplomatic Mission of their country of origin. The perception of many migrant workers is that recognized official representation on their behalf while in the host country can only be provided by a Diplomatic Officer from their home country who is mandated to look after their interests as a priority task. In this context, the Labour Welfare Officer of a Diplomatic Mission in a labour-receiving country has to engage in rather sensitive and responsible work related to migrant workers, who are more vulnerable to abuses and exploitation or otherwise in need of official assistance to overcome the variety of difficulties they may confront in a foreign country.

The National Labour Migration Policy (NLMP) declared by the Sri Lanka Government in 2008 concentrates on the protection and welfare of the country's migrant workers while promoting good governance and practices in the recruitment process. Enriched with the essence of the International Labour Organization's (ILO) "Decent Work" concepts, the NLMP, which is now being implemented under the purview of the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion and Welfare, shapes most of the recent migrant worker policies to ensure a better future for Sri Lankan migrant workers and their families.

Acknowledging the prime responsibility of the Sri Lanka Government for the security, protection, and welfare of its nationals employed overseas, the NLMP emphasizes the need to further strengthen the services offered by the Sri Lanka Diplomatic Missions in labour-receiving countries as a major strategy towards fulfilling such an objective. The NLMP states, "Sri Lankan Embassies in host countries shall have a well defined system to be in contact with all migrant workers in each country. Officers in Sri Lanka Diplomatic Missions in host countries, particularly the Labour Sections shall have the special capacity and ability to handle grievance of migrant workers and to work towards their protection and welfare in proactive manner."

Therefore, it is necessary to enhance and develop the competencies of labour welfare officers to handle the issues and concerns of migrant workers. Additionally, the standardization of procedures, especially transactions that deal with migrant workers, is necessary for avoiding corruption and opportunism. The availability of procedures and programmes in written form is essential for good management and is helpful in institutionalizing and standardizing operations/procedures, which ensures a rational environment for all parties concerned. Accordingly, the main objectives of formulating this Operational Manual for Diplomatic Missions in labour-receiving countries are as follows:

- a. To institutionalize and standardize operations related to the migrant labour functions of a Mission for the purpose of effective delivery of services;
- b. To frame a set of procedures and guidelines for handling migrant worker issues related to the protection and promotion of their rights, welfare, and wellbeing in host countries, with special attention to country-specific arrangements if applicable;
- c. To frame a modality to speed up resolutions of migrant worker disputes;
- d. To streamline the actions of Diplomatic Missions, particularly the Labour Sections, including Honorary Consulates, in delivering services for migrant worker-related issues in a more transparent manner within a structured framework; and
- e. To limit the application of ad-hoc policies and different formulas by officials involved in addressing migrant worker grievances and the promotion of safe migration.

This Manual concentrates on services that are provided by Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions pertaining to the process of labour migration and the associated concerns of migrant workers. Within the limited scope of migrant worker transactions entrusted to a Diplomatic Mission, this Manual provides a more detailed guideline on conducting such transactions, and therefore, can be considered as an effort to strengthen further the existing Consular Manual used by Consular Officers of the Mission at present.

2. Handling of grievances/complaints of migrant workers

2.1. Introduction

Accepting the grievances/complaints of migrant workers and intervening for settlement of such grievances/complaints should be a priority task of the Labour Welfare Officials of a Diplomatic Mission in a labour-receiving country. Migrant workers who encounter various difficulties feel that their most immediate and most trusted party from who they can seek assistance is the Sri Lanka Mission. Hence, Labour Section officials who are specially mandated to assist Sri Lankan workers in distress have to act speedily in a transparent manner to bring relief to these workers within the legal system of the host country.

2.2. Objective

Pave the way for migrant workers to feel that their foreign employment is comfortable, rights-oriented, and trouble-free.

2.3 Authority

- a. SLBFE Act No.21/1985 (Sec.15.m, 21.b,21.c,21.d)
- b. Consular Act No. 4/1981.
- c. Vienna Convention on Consular Relations/1963
- d. SLBFE-Overseas Workers Welfare Fund Committee Decisions.
- e. MOU/Agreement on labour cooperation with reference to the host country.

2.4 Procedure of attending to a grievance/complaint of a migrant worker

2.4.1 Determination of the source of complaint

- a. By a personal visit to the Mission by the migrant worker or a representative of that worker
- b. By communication-telephone/ fax/ e-mail by the worker/ representative.
- c. By Next of kin from Sri Lanka or from another country.
- d. By a Sri Lanka Recruitment Agent
- e. By Foreign Recruitment Agent, Sponsor, or Employer
- f. By the Sri Lanka Bureau of Foreign Employment (SLBFE)
- g. By the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA)
- h. By a Non-Governmental Organization (NGO), Civil Society Organization, or Trade Union
- i. By the Media
- j. By other sources

2.4.2 Determination of the nature of a complaint

- a. Non-payment/ under-payment of wages
- b. Physical harassment
- c. Sexual harassment
- d. Overwork/excessive targets
- e. Lack of communication with next of kin
- f. Medical issues/sickness
- g. Breach of contract/substitution of contract
- h. Change of job category
- i. Work stoppage without a justified cause
- j. Lack of food/poor quality food
- k. Runaway domestic workers
- l. Runaway of non-domestic workers from work place.
- m. Home-front issues
- n. Accommodation problems
- o. Any other issues

2.5 General Procedures for handling grievances/complaints related to migrant workers

- i. The grievance/complaint lodged with the Mission (except for those dispatched by the SLBFE) is to be recorded through the web-based complaint management system by the officer(s) assigned.
- ii. Open a case file, with the appropriate complaint form to be filled out (See Annex I-A/I-B).
- iii. Ascertain and obtain necessary details about the worker through SLBFE online registration data. If the worker seeking assistance from the Labour Section is not registered with the SLBFE, the Labour Officer must seek advice from the SLBFE or assist the worker to report directly to the respective host government authorities.
- iv. Complaints referred through the SLBFE web-based system must be obtained by the officer assigned and referred to a labour official assigned to the task of settling such complaints.
- v. Decide on the order in which cases are to be attended to and the appropriate modalities to adopt, for example, negotiating with the worker, negotiating with the sponsor/employer/agent, or taking legal action within the system, such as referring the matter to Police, Immigration, and/or Labour officials of the host country.
- vi. Report progress to the complainant party within a week and take follow-up actions until settlement.

Progress toward complaint settlement is to be reported to the Head of Mission and the SLBFE on a monthly basis. However, complaints of a critical nature should be reported to the Head of Mission and the SLBFE at the time when such complaints are reported.

2.6 Specific Procedures of handling grievances/ complaints related to migrant workers

2.6.1 Issues related to domestic workers who have fled their place of employment

Handling complaints by female domestic workers who have fled their place of employment is a sensitive matter and may be complicated, as the nature of such complaints varies from case to case. Therefore the skills of the officer, in the form of counselling, patience, listening, and quick decision-making, are very important.

- i. A 24-hour receiving counter must be maintained at the Mission for women who have fled their place of employment, with the assistance of a safe-house keeper/authorized officer.
- ii. Register and record the initial complaint at the time of the complaint is reported.
- iii. The appropriate form is to be filled out (see Annex II-A) and a case file opened. It is also necessary to record the complaint in the SLBFE online registration profile (see Annex II-B).
- iv. The belongings of the complainant are to be examined by the safe-house keeper and inventorized.
- v. Gold, money, and other valuable items are to be taken under safe custody by the supervising officer in the presence of another officer from the Labour Section or the safe-house keeper. A receipt (see Annex III) must be issued to the worker, after first placing a copy of same in the case file.
- vi. The safe-house keeper is to examine and inquire whether immediate medical attention is needed, and if so, to refer the worker to medical attention.
- vii. Inform the worker's sponsor/employment agent as early as possible that the worker is in the custody of the Mission.
- viii. Make attempts to find an amicable settlement with the recruitment agent/sponsor. If a female domestic worker who has fled her place of employment reports to the Mission during the off-time of the officers, she should be enrolled into the safe house by the safe-house keeper/assigned officer, and then she should be referred to the supervising officer(s) the very next day of their duty for routine action.
- ix. Take following steps as appropriate for the case at hand:

- a. If the negotiations with the worker/agent/sponsor are successful, refer the complainant to the agent/sponsor, giving the complainant a form acknowledging that she is free to leave the custody of the Mission (see Annex IV-A).

An officer should not hand over a complainant to the sponsor/agent without the consent of the complainant, and also should not hand the complainant over to a second party other than the sponsor/agent or legal authorities.

- b. When the complainant is to leave the Mission's custody, the supervising officer will release the complainant's belongings, including inventoried valuables. As part of this transaction, the supervising officer will obtain the receipt previously issued to the complainant (see Step v above) with an acknowledgement signed by the complainant in the presence of another officer/safe-house keeper that she has received back all possessions kept in the custody of the Mission.
- c. If the complainant does not want to go back to the agent/sponsor, then she has to be detailed for routine country-specific legal procedures for investigation and repatriation (see Annex IV-B).

In some countries, such as Saudi Arabia and Qatar, domestic workers who flee their place of employment are required to be handed-over to the respective host government-run Welfare Camps for conducting formal investigations and repatriations. Countries like Lebanon and the Fujairah Emirate in the United Arab Emirates, require domestic workers who have fled their place of employment to be handed over to Immigration-run detention centres until investigations are finalized and repatriation takes place. Countries like Kuwait, Jordan, and some Emirates in the United Arab Emirates, allow Embassy officials to bring such complainants to the respective departments of Interior and Immigration authorities for investigations and organise their repatriation while permitting the complainant to reside at the Embassy's safe house.

- d. In the event that a female domestic worker who has fled her employer is reported to have been subjected to sexual abuse or physical torture, immediate action must be taken to produce her to the appropriate legal authorities to secure her rights.
- e. If legal assistance is needed to pursue her case and a Legal Officer is not attached to the Mission, approval must be sought from the SLBFE to retain a lawyer.
- f. Update the safe-house management webpage of SLBFE with any actions taken to notify the next of kin of the complainant's status. The most vital document needed from a worker who seeks repatriation is their passport. Hence, the officer must first attempt to secure the passport of the worker.

Since the passport of the worker is normally kept by the sponsor, the officer must explore the possibility of obtaining it from the sponsor. If the sponsor is at fault, normally they tend to return the passport to the mission without going through any legal procedures. However, in the event that a passport has been surrendered to the Police/Immigration by the sponsor as the law requires in the host country, there is no option other than following country-specific routine legal procedures for accessing the passport and repatriation.

2.6.2 Issues related to domestic workers in-service

Procedures to be followed;

- i. Recording the complaint, registering and opening of a case file. (Annex-1A,1B)
- ii. Contact the recruitment agent (foreign) and seek assistance to settle the issue.
- iii. Contact the sponsor/employer if possible, and explore the possibility of settling the case amicably.
- iv. In the event of a serious case (physical and sexual harassment, torture, medical disorders, etc.) intervention through the legal system of the country of employment is to be pursued with the concurrence of the worker.
- v. If the grievance is of a personal nature, and does not concern any other party, negotiate with the SLBFE for an amicable settlement and seek assistance from the respective recruiting agents on both the receiving and sending ends.
- i. In the event of needing a Third Person Note to seek assistance from the authorities, such documentation must be arranged through the Head of Mission.
- vii. When the concerned domestic worker wants to surrender to the Mission, after they have left their place of employment, officers must explore the possibility of providing assistance for such action through legal means and conduct follow-up actions within the given context.

Generally, immigration fines or overstaying fines should not be paid from the government funds. The worker or the next of kin or any other private party must bear such expenses. If a special situation arises due to unavoidable circumstances (e.g., sudden closure of the working place) arrangements must be made to provide government funds. However, prior approval of the SLBFE must be obtained to meet such expenses.

2.6.3 Issues related to non-domestic sector workers

Procedures to be adopted;

- i. Record the complaint. Register and open a case file (see Annexes I-A & I-B).
 - ii. Ascertain whether the complaint is of a personal nature or corporate nature.
 - iii. If the complaint is of a corporate nature, (eg. non-payment/delay in payment of wages, excessive work, poor food, poor accommodation) inform the worksite management and make a visit to assess the situation on the ground.
 - iv. If the complaint contains a reasonable claim, conduct discussions with the management of the worksite to settle/mitigate the issue.
 - v. Make every attempt to obtain written statements from the management on the settlement proposed, whenever it is possible, in order to provide an explanation to the workers in a more authentic way.
 - vi. Always stick to the terms and conditions stipulated in the employee/employer agreement as a base for negotiations with the employer and employee.
 - vii. If the negotiations fail, resort to country-specific official action with the competent authority (e.g., the Ministry of Labour, Management of Free Trade Zones) to settle the issue with the knowledge of Head of Mission and the SLBFE.
- Since Missions can only assist workers in making formal complaints to the appropriate authorities, it is important to obtain a written statement signed by the worker to support the complaint when lodging it with the competent authority. Arrange legal assistance, if necessary, with the consent of the aggrieved worker(s).
- viii. Persuade workers to accept the ruling of the competent authority.
 - ix. Notify SLBFE of the progress of the case from time to time. In the event of work stoppage, explain to the workers the country rules and regulations that they are expected to adhere to. When conducting negotiations with management, it is necessary to arrange for the participation of a few worker representatives. These representatives must also witness the negotiations in order to establish the transparency of the actions taken by the Mission.
 - x. Strict advice must be given to workers not to become involved with nationals of other countries at the worksite in making complaints, as terms and conditions differ from nationality to nationality in most worksites (e.g., , with regard to monthly salary, food, etc.).
 - xi. If the complaint is of a personal nature, negotiate with management for an amicable settlement, and seek assistance from the respective recruiting agents on both the receiving and sending ends.

2.7 Blacklisting of errant recruitment agents/ employers/sponsors and workers

Introduction

The involvement of errant recruitment agents/employers/sponsors and workers with bad practices has contributed towards creating a low standard in labour migration which is harmful for all stakeholders. Framing measures to arrest such situations within the system is deemed necessary to minimise negative impacts to the labour migration process.

Objectives

To establish a decent and dignified work ethic in the process of labour migration by identifying and expelling errant agents from the system.

Authority

SLBFE ACT No. 21/1985 and its amendments of 1994 and 2009.

2.7.1 Conditions for blacklisting errant recruitment agents

- i. Severe negligence of handling of complaints of migrant workers.
- ii. Abusing migrant workers, especially females, during their time in the agency's custody.
- iii. Non-cooperation with the Mission in recruitment dealings and breach of contract entered into with Sri Lankan workers.
- iv. Unethical business practices which result in the exploitation of Sri Lankan migrant workers and Sri Lankan agents. (E.g. Recruitment of workers without genuine job opportunities, trading of workers)
- v. Violation of host country regulations.
- vi. Any act against the national interest of Sri Lanka.
- vii. Based on a recommendation by any other Mission of any other country located in the host country.

2.7.2 Conditions for blacklisting errant employees/sponsors

- i. Severe violation of terms and conditions of an employment contract entered into with a Sri Lankan worker.
- ii. Physical and sexual abuse towards migrant workers.
- iii. Trading of workers.
- iv. Using workers for illegal activities.
- v. Violation of host country laws.

- vi. Engaging in activities which bring economic disadvantage to the Sri Lankan Government, including sabotaging the recruitment of Sri Lankans.

2.7.3 Conditions for blacklisting errant workers

- i. Violation of immigration laws of the host country.
- ii. Conviction for civil and criminal offences imposed by a court of law in the host country.
- iii. Engaged in immoral and criminal acts in the host country.
- iv. Involvement in theft, forgeries and fraudulent activities in the host country.
- v. Engaging in activities against the national interest of Sri Lanka.
- vi. Engaging in activities against the national interest of the host country.
- vii. Engaging in activities which sabotage the business interest of the employer.
- viii. Influencing or organising the workers for illegal activities against the employer or the establishment.
- ix. Refusal of work without a valid reason.
- x. Entry into the host country with forged documents.

2.7.4 Procedures to follow in the blacklisting of recruitment agents/employers/sponsors/workers

- i. Careful collection of evidence necessary for the determination of blacklisting.
- ii. In the event of a recruitment agent/establishment is found to be engaging in activities warranting blacklisting; sending of prior warning to rectify the reported allegations
- iii. Careful review of the evidence that will lead to blacklisting.
- iv. Taking the decision for blacklisting.
- v. Submit the decision for the approval of the Head of Mission and the SLBFE.
- vi. Effecting the blacklisting alongside the registration in the appropriate database maintained for this purpose.

When an errant agent/employer/sponsor is blacklisted, it should be clearly mentioned in the files that this blacklisting is applied only for the recruitment of Sri Lankan workers. Whereas if the blacklisting is applied on a worker, it must be clearly mentioned in the files that this blacklisting is applied only for re-employment in a foreign assignment.

3. Repatriation of Workers

3.1 Introduction

Repatriation of destitute workers due to numerous reasons has been accepted as a dedicated service to be rendered by the officers in the Labour Sections of Diplomatic Missions in labour- receiving countries. Repatriation of migrant workers is associated with premature termination of an employment contract by either side (employer or employee) or due to industrial disputes. In the case of domestic workers, the main reasons attributed to such repatriations are physical and sexual harassment, non/under payment of wages, overwork, poor food and accommodation provisions, and medical unfitness.

3.2 Objective

To relieve the migrant worker of his/her grievances by providing assistance to return to the home country.

3.3 Authority

- i. SLBFE Act No.21/1985
- ii. Consular Functions Act No.4 of 1981
- iii. Vienna Convention on Consular Relations of 1963

3.4 Procedures for repatriation

- i. Determine the reason why repatriation is required.
 - a. Repatriation of domestic workers due to the fault of a sponsor.
 - b. Repatriation of non-domestic workers due to the fault of an employer.
 - c. Repatriation of domestic workers due to the fault of the worker.
 - d. Repatriation of non-domestic workers due to the fault of the worker.
 - e. Repatriation due to medical grounds.
 - f. Repatriation of workers for personal reasons relating to family at home.
 - g. Repatriation due to war or national disaster situation in the host country.
- ii. Arrange legal clearance for exit from the host country through the appropriate host country authority: typically the Ministry of Interior/Immigration for domestic workers, and the Ministry of Labour and Ministry of Interior/Immigration for non-domestic workers.

Repatriation procedures vary from country to country and between administrative provinces within the host country. While authorities in countries like Qatar and Lebanon directly handle migrant worker repatriation through their respective deportation camps, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates (some Emirates only), Jordan, and Saudi Arabia allow Embassies to take responsibility for repatriating exit-cleared workers. As such, the Labour Officers of the Mission must first familiarize themselves with host country procedures and apply same when the need arises, while developing a good working relationship with the relevant authorities for easy access and to expedite the process.

3.5 General conditions to be applied on the requirement of Air Ticket

- a. In the event of a non-domestic worker being repatriated due to the fault of the employer, the air ticket cost is to be borne by the employer (such requirements must be brought to the notice of the foreign recruitment agent and the agent in Sri Lanka). The agent in Sri Lanka must be notified through the SLBFE to persuade the employer to pay for the air ticket. If the employer refuses to pay the ticket cost, the payment requirement has to be referred to the competent authority of the host country for a settlement. Under such circumstances, both local and foreign agents should be warned and kept under temporary suspension, with the concurrence of the SLBFE, until the case is settled.
- b. In the event of a repatriation of a domestic worker who has fled their place of employment due to the fault of the sponsor, attempts must be made to secure the ticket cost from the sponsor. If the sponsor refuses to pay for the ticket, the matter must be brought to the attention of the competent authority for a settlement. In such circumstances, the sponsor must be suspended from receiving further Sri Lankan workers.
- c. For cases where Labour Officials decide that repatriation should take place immediately due to the nature of the case, and there is no way of obtaining the air ticket cost from the sponsor or agent, the approval for the cost of the air ticket has to be sought from the SLBFE. This can be requested under the SLBFE maintained insurance programme (for valid holders of SLBFE registration) or the Workers Welfare Fund (for those whose SLBFE registrations have expired).

3.5.1 What is the Workers Welfare Fund (WWF)?

Section 45 of the SLBFE Act stipulates:

The Bureau shall, for the benefit of Sri Lankans employed outside Sri Lanka establish a 'Workers Welfare Fund'. The Fund is enriched with collection of revenue out of Agency/Company registration, Job Order and Individual Contract registration process at the Missions. The Fund also receives a compulsory allocation of 10 per cent out (Sec.4.b of SLBFE Amendment Act No.09/1994) of every migrant worker registration fee, as outlined in the Government Gazette dated 1.9.1995. As per Section 48(d) of the SLBFE Act No.21/1985, the Fund intends to meet 'all expenses incurred in providing assistance to Sri Lankans employed outside Sri Lanka and their families.'

The fund is subject to the administration of a special committee which consists of senior officers of the SLBFE, the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion & Welfare, and the Ministry of External Affairs.

- d. However, if the worker has qualified for an air ticket under any host country-operated insurance policy (e.g., like that operated by Jordan), the requirement for such a ticket needs to be claimed from the insurance provider.
- e. When the ticket cost is sought from the SLBFE, the following supporting documents must be enclosed with the request:
 - i. Name/Names of the persons with their passport numbers and confirmation of a SLBFE valid/expired registration.
 - ii. If a ticket is needed on medical grounds, a copy of the medical certificate.
 - iii. If repatriation is needed due to physical/sexual harassment, a certified letter from the Head of Labour Section to that effect.
 - iv. A copy of the quotation for the ticket. (If it is required that the ticket be purchased from an airline other than the lowest bidder, justifications for that decision must be provided.)

Air ticket costs for destitute workers who have never registered with the SLBFE have to be supplied by the worker/next of kin or any other source.

- f. Once the repatriation arrangement is finalized, the flight details are to be communicated to the SLBFE 'Sahana Piyasa' with a copy sent to the Chairman/SLBFE to facilitate the arrival and the updating of files (see Annex V).
- g. Once the repatriation is finalized, an individual confirmation statement from each of the repatriated workers must be furnished to the SLBFE to be submitted to the Insurance Provider for reimbursement of the ticket cost to the SLBFE (see Annex VI)
- h. If a repatriating worker suffers from a medical condition or disability as a result of the foreign employment and is therefore entitled to compensation under the insurance policy operated by the SLBFE, supporting documents, such as medical reports and an Embassy certification letter, are to be provided to the worker to facilitate their claim on arrival.

In the event that the ticket cost is borne by the worker with the assistance of the Labour Section, the original receipt from such a ticket purchase must be provided to the worker with a standard letter confirming that the worker has incurred the cost of their ticket (see Annex V-B). Such documents, along with a copy of the ticket, are needed for when the worker applies for reimbursement of the ticket cost from the Insurance Provider upon their return.

3.6 Repatriation due to personal reasons

3.6.1 Procedures of Repatriation

- i. Ascertain the real personal need of the worker, and collect evidence for justification of the case. (For example, in the event of a death of a family member, secure a copy of the death certificate, etc.)
- ii. Negotiate with the employer/sponsor. If the foreign agent was involved with the original recruitment, seek the assistance of the foreign agent to persuade the employer/sponsor to allow repatriation.
- iii. If a claim is made by the employer/sponsor with regard to repayment of recruitment costs and/or air ticket costs, negotiate for a reasonable cost in line with the circular of instructions from the SLBFE.
- iv. If the worker does not have access to the reimbursement amount claimed by the employer/sponsor, the worker's next of kin are to be notified of the amount required through the SLBFE.

- v. Arrange payment of money received from the worker/next of kin to the employer/sponsor directly or through the foreign agent as appropriate, and obtain an acknowledgement that payment was made.
- vi. Provide copies of any money transactions to the worker before their exit from the host country.

Repatriation on personal reasons cannot be claimed as a right of the contracted worker. Therefore, it is necessary to thoroughly inform the worker about the limitations that an officer has in intervening for such a request. When negotiating with employers/sponsors, the officer must demonstrate a courteous and diplomatic manner.

3.7 Repatriation due to war situations or natural disaster situations in the host country

3.7.1 Procedures of Repatriation

- i. Notify the Ministry of External Affairs of the situation and provide a copy of that report to the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion and Welfare through the Head of Mission. Act on the instructions received.
- ii. Explore the possibility of mobilizing any external assistance available in the host country to evacuate and repatriate workers. In the event of a crisis situation in the host country that necessitates the workers' immediate evacuation and repatriation, officers of the Labour Section must work as a team with all the other officers in the Mission to assist the victimized Sri Lankans and engage in a collective effort towards the targets under the direct supervision of the Head of Mission.

3.8. Repatriation due to 'Special Care Needs'

3.8.1 Procedures of Repatriation

- i. The procedures below apply to workers who are bed-ridden or on stretchers.
- ii. The procedures below also apply to workers in wheelchairs.
 - a. Obtain hospital clearance for repatriation
 - b. Obtain the airline medical officer's permission.
 - c. Prepare a cost estimation of the repatriation
 - d. Explore the possibility of securing funds from the recruitment agent/employer/sponsor or international agencies.
 - e. Fund requirements must be brought to the notice of the SLBFE and next of kin.
 - f. After funds have been generated apply for exit clearance of the worker
 - g. If the worker's passport is not available, arrange a temporary passport/out pass.
 - h. Arrange an escort on advice of the hospital/airline.
- iii. Notify the arrival flight schedule to 'Sahana Piyasa' of SLBFE with a copy to the Chairman of SLBFE and the Director General of the Consular Division of the Ministry of External Affairs to facilitate on-arrival assistance, and update the related case files.

When repatriating workers who are bed-ridden, on stretchers, or on wheel chairs, financial assistance should not be sought from the Diaspora, local NGOs, or individuals to meet the repatriation cost.

4. Ensuring a safe recruitment process for promoting the rights of Sri Lankan migrant workers

4.1 Introduction

Recruitment of Sri Lankans for overseas employment has been vested under the close surveillance of Sri Lanka Diplomatic Missions in host countries for the purpose of better monitoring their recruitment standards to ensure a safe migration process and to safeguard the rights, security, and the welfare of workers. The three-fold mechanism employed in this respect relates to:

- a. Registration of the prospective recruiting party (agency/company) at the Mission.
- b. Approval of job orders and related documents.
- c. Approval of individual job contracts as applied to certain job categories.

4.2 Objective

To ensure safe foreign employment and adherence to good governance policies and best practices on recruitment management for the betterment of migrant workers and all other stakeholders.

4.3 Authority

- a. Subsequent Regulations published in the Extra Ordinary Gazette Notification No 364/9, dated 28.8.1985 after the enactment of Sri Lanka Bureau of Foreign Employment in August 1985
- b. Ministry of Foreign Affairs Circular No. CONS/1 dated 25.9.1997.
- c. Ministry of Foreign Affairs Circular No.OM/E8/SLBFE/02 dated 6.6.2008 on 'Revision of the fees for labour contract registration.'
- d. SLBFE Circular No.FR(1)/1/37.dated 22.05.2012 and amendments dated 05.06.2012 and 19.06.2012 on 'Implementation of decisions taken at the Consultative Meeting of Heads of Missions and officers in Labour Sections of Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions in the Labour Receiving Countries held in Amman, Jordan.

4.4 Procedures of registration of recruitment party (agency/company)

- i. Accepting the duly filled application form (Annex 7-A) from the prospective recruiting party.
- ii. Review of Recruiting Agency/Company registration certificate or licence issued by the competent authority. (If necessary check veracity of the document from the competent authority).
- iii. Review the recruiting agency/company's profile.
- iv. Review the identification details of the applicant. If a foreigner, secure a copy of the applicant's residence visa.
- v. Review past annual reports/audit reports of the agency/company.
- vi. Verify the authenticity of the Sri Lankan recruitment agency/agencies named in the application by the applicant. Only five Sri Lankan agencies are allowed for one applicant.
- vii. Undertake a field visit to ascertain the location of the recruiting agency/company.
- viii. Refuse or Accept the registration.
- ix. If accepted, issue a certificate with the registration number, valid for one year (see Annex VIII), after charging the prescribed fee for agency/company registration.
- x. Enter the company/agency registration details in the relevant online computer database linked with the SLBFE and store a copy of Registration Certificate in a systematic way to be referred to when the needs arises.

4.4.1. Procedures for annual renewal of recruiting party registration

The recruitment party registered under above clause (4.4) must renew its validity of recruitment of Sri Lankan manpower, at the end of one year from the first registration.

At the point of such a renewal, the following criteria have to be adopted:

- i. Accept the duly filled renewal application form (see Annex VII-B).

- ii. Assess the first year of recruitment to determine compliance with the terms and conditions stipulated in the original application.
- iii. Assess the cooperation extended by the recruitment party to the Mission and Sri Lankan recruitment agencies in attending to the grievances of migrant workers.
- iv. Assess the conduct displayed by the recruitment party throughout the past year with regard to adhering to good practices.
- v. Refuse or accept the renewal.
- vi. If accepted, renew the licence for a further one year under the original licence number, after charging the prescribed fee. This practice must be carried out on an annual basis.
- vii. Update the relevant computer database linked with the SLBFE.

4.5 Job Order Approval

4.5.1 Authority

- a. Subsequent Regulation published in the Government Gazette (Extraordinary) of 364/9 dated 28.8.1985
- b. Foreign Secretary's Circular No. Cons/1, dated 25.9.1997 on 'Implementation of rational and standard employment contract system for domestic and factory workers'
- c. Foreign Secretary's Circular No.OM/E8/SLBFE/02 dated 6.6.2008 on 'Revision of the fees for labour Contract Registration'
- d. SLBFE Chairman's Circular No. R(1)/1/37 dated 22.5.2012 and amendments dated 05.06.2012 and 19.06.2012 on 'Implementation of decisions taken at the Consultative Meeting of Heads of Missions and officers in Labour Sections of Sri Lanka Diplomatic Missions in the labour receiving, countries held in Amman, Jordan.'

4.5.1.1 What is a Job Order?

For the purposes of this Manual, a Job Order is the legal document by which Sri Lankan labour is requested for hiring purpose by a foreign recruitment party (agency/company). This request goes through a Sri Lankan counterpart who is contracted by the foreign recruitment party for the purpose of procuring such labour and dispatching the workers to the destination.

4.5.2 Procedures to be followed for foreign recruitment agencies/companies

- i. Accept two duly filled copies of the following:
 - a. The Job Order (see Annex IX);
 - b. The Service Agreement of agency/company entered with Sri Lankan counterpart (see Annex X); and
 - c. The Power of Attorney form filled out by the foreign agency/company in favour of their Sri Lankan counterpart (see Annex XI).
- ii. Verify whether the correct formats are used when submitting the Job Order and ensure the Power of Attorney and Service Agreement is on an official letterhead of the Foreign Recruitment Party.
- iii. Verify whether the terms and conditions stipulated in the Job Order, in terms of salary, age, accommodation, medical facilities, food provision, air transport, leave etc, are within the minimum approved limits of the SLBFE.
- iv. Determine whether the particular job requirement has been approved by the local competent authority.
- v. Determine the credibility of the worksite by scrutinizing the commercial registration with local authorities and relevant Chambers of Commerce.
- vi. Physically verify the conditions of the worksite, when and where such requirement is deemed necessary. Such verification is important, especially in the event of group recruitment.
- vii. In cases where an outsourcing agency demands manpower on behalf of principals (other than domestics in a particular worksite), verify whether a proper Power of Attorney issued by the principal employer in favour of the applicant (outsource company) has been submitted.
- viii. Verify whether a specimen of the genuine job agreement (scheduled to be issued to the employee) has been submitted as a supporting document with an endorsement by the employing party, thereby making sure such an agreement is authentic.
- ix. Determine whether the Sri Lankan recruitment counterpart named in the Job Order is authentic and credible.
- x. Determine whether the Sri Lankan counterpart has already been named in the recruiting party's registration application.

- xi. Determine whether the Power of Attorney form (see Annex XI) and Service Agreement form (Annex X) have been correctly filled out in favour of the Sri Lankan counterpart(s).
- xii. Refuse or accept the Job Order.
- xiii. If accepted, enter the Job Order registration reference number on the top right hand side of the document and refer to the Cashier for levying the Job Order registration fee.
- xiv. Accept the set of documents with the payment receipt for final endorsement.
- xv. Endorse the full set of documents by using the date stamp, crown seal, and the payment receipt number, and issue the original set to the applicant.
- xvi. Enter the Job Order registration details into the online database linked with the SLBFE, and store/file a copy in a systematic way in order to trace in the event of need. The Mission must adopt a user-friendly mechanism in the dissemination of specific formats and instructions to the workers/agencies/employers/sponsors so as to arm them with the materials needed when visiting the Mission to obtain various services. The Mission's official website, Agency Associations, the Mission's reception counter, and notice boards can be used as tools for such dissemination of instructions and related formats.

5. Registration of individual job contracts

5.1 Authority

Foreign Secretary's Circular No.CON/1, dated 25.9.1997 which instructs Diplomatic Missions in the labour-receiving countries to process the registration of individual job agreements applied to female domestic workers. The scope of this provision has been further widened by extending this coverage to cover female garment factory workers by the SLBFE Chairman's Circular No.14/2003 dated 17.9.2003 and all female unskilled workers, in 2010. SLBFE Chairman's Circular No.FR/01/PFS/MER/11 dated 6.12.2011 on, Manual of Procedures for Labour Sections and SLBFE Chairman's Circular No.FR(1)/1/37 dated 22.5.2012, has further updated the above requirements.

The need for initiating individual job contracts pertaining to female domestic and garment factory workers from the receiving end with the clearance of the respective Sri Lanka Diplomatic Mission was a recommendation made by the Presidential Taskforce on Security and Protection of Migrant Workers in 1997.

5.2 Procedures for registration of individual job contracts

- i. Accept of two sets of the individual job contracts issued in the name of the worker by the recruiting party (e.g., a sponsor or a recruitment agent or authorized representative in the event of a domestic worker; a company's Human Resources Manager/authorized officer, in the event of a non-domestic sector worker).
- ii. In the case of a garment factory worker, verify whether the contract format is in practice and is a standard one.
- iii. If the job contract submitted by a company is specific to the company itself, verify that the terms and conditions are within acceptable standards and satisfy the minimum requirements of the SLBFE, especially in terms of salary, accommodation, food, transport, leave, medical facilities, and contract period, etc.

The contract period of a domestic worker originally should not be more than two years, while the contract period of a garment factory worker originally cannot be for more than three years. However, the accepted contract period for Cyprus-bound workers is considered to be four years.

- iv. Ascertain whether the particular job contract is related to a Job Order already approved by the Mission as per Section 4.5.2 of this Manual.
- v. Ascertain whether the applicant agency/company has been registered by the Mission for the purpose of recruiting Sri Lankan workers as per Section 3.4.1 of this Manual.

- vi. Ascertain whether the signatures on the job contract have been properly placed in the contract by the agent/ employer/sponsor. In the event that the contract is that of a company/agency, the company/agency's official seal must be placed under the signature.
- vii. Accept or refuse the individual job contract.
- viii. If accepted, enter the individual job contract registration reference number on the top right-hand side of the document and refer to the Cashier for levying the job contract registration fee.
- ix. Accept the job contract with the payment receipt for final endorsement.
- x. Endorse the two sets of contract papers by using the official date stamp and the crown seal of the Mission, indicate the payment receipt number, and issue the original set to the applicant.
- xi. Enter the individual contract registration details in the online database linked with the SLBFE and store a copy of the contract papers in a systematic way to trace it in the event a reference is required.

5.2.1 Documents required for registering the job contracts of direct hires

In the event that a Sri Lankan worker is hired for employment abroad through a direct hire (as opposed to through a recruitment agency), the Mission requires the following documentation related to the job contract for registration purposes:

- a. Individual job contract in duplicate
- b. Copy of the identification documents of the direct sponsor in addition to the job contract papers.
- c. Employer's profile (see Annex XII-A)
- d. Sponsor's statement on how contact with the employee was established
- e. If the prospective worker is a relative of a worker already in service in the host country, a statement from the relative to that effect, along with the relative's profile (If any suspicion arises, refer the case to the SLBFE for verification of relationship before approval.)

- f. If a second party has proposed the worker to a sponsor, an authority letter from the sponsor to the second party for their involvement in proposing the worker
- g. Income certificate of the sponsor
- h. A copy of the prospective worker's passport
- i. A copy of the prospective worker's visa
- j. In the event of a direct recruitment of a female domestic worker, a refundable deposit of US$1,000 or equivalent currency value of the host country is charged from the employer and an acknowledgement of receipt must be issued. The employer will be entitled to receive the deposit back after producing the required documents to the Mission within a three month period after the termination of the employment contract and the departure of the worker (See Annexes XII-B and XII-C)

The refundable deposit of US$1,000 charged in the event of direct recruitment of a female domestic worker will be used to recover dues from the employer in cases of non-payment of salaries, non-provision of return air ticket, medical expenses of the worker, repatriation of mortal remains, compensation in the case of physical harassment, etc.

5.2.2 Presently applicable fee structure

- i. Agency/Company registration for recruitment of Sri Lankan workers - US$ 35 or equivalent in local currency.
- ii. Annual Renewal of Agency/Company registration - US$ 35 or equivalent in local currency.
- iii. Job Order approval:
 - a. Approval and registration of Job Order - US$ 35 or equivalent currency value of the host country.
 - b. Approval and registration of Power of Attorney - US $35 or equivalent currency value of host country.
 - c. Approval and registration of Service Agreement between Sri Lankan Agent and Foreign Agent/ Company - US$ 35 or equivalent currency value of the host country.
 - d. Individual job contract registration fee – US$50 or equivalent currency value of the host country
 - e. New registration of an employee under the SLBFE

compulsory registration scheme – Sri Lankan Rupee (LKR) 7,700/= or equivalent in local currencies if the monthly salary is less than LKR20,000 in value and LKR10,200/= or equivalent if the monthly salary is more than LKR20,000/= (see Annex XIII)

- f. Renewal of the SLBFE registration of an employee - LKR 3,200/= or equivalent in local currencies.
- g. In cases when a worker has changed their employer and is requesting an SLBFE registration renewal, Section 5.2.2.e above is to be applied.

5.2.3 Coding of employment-related documents

- a. Registering a recruitment agency – AG/country code/serial no. assigned to the agency. (For example, registering an agency in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, would be AG/Ryd/10.)
- b. Registering a company – COM/country code/serial no. assigned to the company. (For example, a company registered in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, would be COM/Ryd/07.)
- c. Registering a Job Order by an agency – AG/no. assigned to the agency/country code/serial no. of the Job Order. (For example, a Job Order registered in Kuwait would be AG/05/KT/JO/10.)
- d. Registering a Job Order by a company – COM/no. assigned to company/country code/serial no. of the Job Order/year. (For example, a Job Order registered in Kuwait would be COM/07/KT/JO/12.)
- e. Registering an individual Job Contract by an agency- AG/no. assigned to agency/country code/serial No. of the job contract/year. (For example, a job contract registered in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, would be AG/01/DXB/02/12.)
- f. Registering an individual Job Contract by a company – COM/no. assigned to company/country code/serial no. of the Job Contract/year. (For example, for a Job Contract registered in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, would be COM/04/DXB/05/12.)
- g. Registering an individual Job Contract on direct basis by the sponsor/employer – PVT/country code/serial no. of the job contract/year. (For example, for a direct job contract registered in Lebanon would be PVT/LBN/20/12.)

For a list of Country Codes, refer to Annex XIV.

6. General administration

6.1 Introduction

Labour Sections of Sri Lankan Missions situated in major labour-receiving countries are confronted with a myriad of issues. They are inundated with numerous requests of migrant workers and manage all aspects related to foreign employment of Sri Lankans at the host country level. In addition, the Labour Section manages a considerable amount of general administrative work related to personnel and day-to-day functions of the Labour Section.

6.2 Objective

To ensure accountability and transparency in transactions pertaining to the Labour Section of a Diplomatic Mission in a labour-receiving country.

6.3 Assigning duties to officers

- i. The Head of Mission, with the consultation of the Head of the Labour Section must issue duty lists to all of the home-based and local-based staff members of the Section.
- ii. When issuing such duty lists to home-based officers, in Missions where more than one officer is stationed, the duties must be reasonably allocated among the officers, so as to balance the day-to-day functions of the Section.
- iii. There is no limitation to allocating similar duties among the officers, considering the work load.
- iv. Irrespective of duty lists with different assignments, officers must adhere to the “one country approach” in the event of attending duties at special occasions and work as a team.
- v. Duty lists issued to the home-based officers should be copied to the Chairman/SLBFE for administrative purposes.

6.4 Maintenance of registers

- i. The Head of the Labour Section should maintain and update an inventory for fixed assets supplied to the Section through SLBFE votes (see Annex XV).
- ii. Disposal of such fixed assets due to being worn out or any other reason must be clearly recorded in the inventory.

Officers are encouraged to maintain a computerized database of the inventoried valuables of safe-house residents.

Should items need to be disposed of, the SLBFE must be notified to get the approval of the Workers Welfare Fund committee before any such action is taken. Approved government procedures must be adopted during such occasions.

6.5 Annual Board of Survey

- i. An annual Board of Survey should be carried out during the month of December of each year.
- ii. A Board of Survey for this purpose should be appointed by the Head of Mission.
- iii. A report related to the Board of Survey with their recommendations, if any, must be forwarded to the SLBFE through the Head of Mission for audit purposes.

6.6 Vehicle utilisation

- i. Vehicles supplied by the SLBFE for the use by the Labour Section should be managed by the Head of the Labour Section.
- ii. The Head of the Labour Section must ensure that running charts are properly maintained by the drivers.
- iii. The driver assigned to each vehicle should be responsible for proper maintenance of the vehicle and his negligence will be liable for disciplinary action and recovery of damages.

- iv. In the event of vehicle repairs/maintenance, approved procurement/service guidelines should be followed. The Labour section should maintain a separate register for each vehicle provided by the SLBFE for record keeping on following;
 - a. Replacement of tires
 - b. Replacement of batteries
 - c. Updating vehicle servicing records
 - d. Any other running repairs
- v. Vehicles should be parked only at the Mission premises during out-of-office hours.

6.7 Purchasing procedures

- i. All purchases by the Labour Section (goods and services), including food items that are needed for the use of residents of the safe house, should be made in accordance with approved purchasing procedures as stipulated in the Procurement Guidelines (NPA Circular No.08/25.1.2006 and its subsequent amendments).
- ii. In the case of purchasing food items, a supplier can be registered for a specific period at agreed prices after undergoing tender procedures. The Head of the Labour Section must take action with this regard in consultation with the Head of Missions. A separate register should be maintained for the purchase of essential items for safe house inmates and jailed Sri Lankans.
- iii. When air tickets are purchased, priority should be given to national carriers such as SriLankan Airlines or Mihin Lanka when direct flights are operated from the host country. If not, air tickets should be purchased after calling for quotations.
- iv. When air tickets are purchased for repatriation, prior approval for ticket fare and the number of tickets must be obtained from the SLBFE.
- vi. When requesting air tickets, the name of the Sri Lankan worker, date arrived at host country, date arrived to safe house and reason for repatriation should be clearly stated with the recommendation of head of the Labour Section on following format.

- viii. In the event air tickets are being requested under the insurance scheme operated by the SLBFE, the required document should be sent within the stipulated time given by the insurance service provider for reimbursement procedures.

6.8 Communication

6.8.1 Communication with the SLBFE and relevant State Agencies

- i. The Head of the Labour Section is responsible for sending prompt replies to the relevant Divisions of the SLBFE/other State Agencies on matters pertaining to the Labour Section.
- ii. If the required information on such cases cannot be sent immediately, an interim reply or acknowledgement should be sent within a two week period.
- iii. The SLBFE maintains a 24-hour complaint reception centre at the Head Office, and a similar system of 24-hour complaint-receiving operation/hotline must be maintained at the Labour Section or residence of home-based officers. This service should facilitate both migrant workers and the SLBFE as per instructions in SLBFE circular No. FR/1/35 dated 17.07.2012 on “Establishing toll-free hotlines for labour sections of Sri Lankan Mission”.

6.8.2 Communication with host country authorities

- i. Officers of the Labour Section are encouraged to develop good diplomatic relationships with host country authorities, especially in sectors of Labour, Immigration, Police, Hospitals, Airports, Prisons, and Courts of Law, for the purpose of facilitating Sri Lankan migrant worker requirements.
- ii. Meet with counterpart officers in the other Diplomatic Missions of labour-sending countries situated in the host country, build relationships and consensus on matters of mutual interests on migrant worker issues, and share good practices.

6.8.3 Communication within the Mission/Labour Division

- i. Assist common activities of the Mission under the guidance of the Head of Mission, and develop better coordination among all officials of the Mission.
- ii. Promote team work within the Labour Section, irrespective of the Ministry that they originated from.
- iii. Conduct monthly meetings to review work performances, identify critical areas, and share information. The Head of the Labour Section is to chair such meetings, and the minutes of the meeting are to be submitted to the Head of Mission for possible action.
- iv. Maintain a good relationship with local and host country recruitment agencies/associations and facilitate their requirements by providing information/assistance when requested.
- v. Maintain the following lists for references with the guidance of Head of Mission.
 - a. List of blacklisted sponsors/companies
 - b. List of blacklisted agencies
 - c. List of available lawyers (Sri Lankan/host country)
 - d. List of available medical practitioners (Sri Lankan/host country)
 - e. List of other Sri Lankan professionals
 - f. List of NGOs/associations working with migrant workers.
 - g. List of interpreters/translators

6.8.4 Communication with media and international agencies

- i. Communication with local/foreign media and international agencies in an official capacity should be done only with the permission of the Head of Mission.
- ii. Before commenting on sensitive issues related to migrant worker issues, the officer must consult the Chairman/SLBFE for instructions.
- iii. The officers must not make any comment against the host government's specific policies or authorities at any time.

6.8.5 Communication with clients (sponsors/employment agents)

- i. Develop a customer-friendly environment in the Labour Section.

7. Discipline / Code of Conduct

- i. Every official in the Labour Section of the Mission is responsible for respecting and promoting the values and interests of Sri Lanka.
- ii. The officers should be responsible for creating and maintaining a good impression of Sri Lanka in the host country.
- iii. Labour officials in the Labour Section should always maintain integrity, impartiality, honesty, and objectivity during their tenure at the Mission and create a customer-friendly environment within the Labour Section.
- iv. The officers should respect the lines of responsibility and accountability, and always work under the guidance of the Head of the Mission.
- v. All officials in the Labour Section are subject to the provisions of the Establishment Code of the Government of Sri Lanka and Circulars issued by the relevant Ministries and SLBFE from time to time.
- vi. All officers in the Labour Section are bound by the relevant provisions of the financial regulations, especially on the expenditure of public funds, approval of payments, and collection or receipt of public funds.
- vii. The Head of Mission can initiate an investigation against any officer in the Labour Section, with the consultation of home country authorities.
- viii. It is the duty of all officials and their dependents to respect the laws and regulations of the host country, even when the officer is entitled to diplomatic or consular immunities.
- ix. Labour officials are prohibited from engaging in any professional or commercial activity for the purpose of gaining personal profits, which is inconsistent with their diplomatic status in the host country.
- x. Mission facilities, staff, resources, as well as official residences should not be used for unofficial activities which may negatively affect the reputation of the officer, the Mission, and Sri Lanka.

8. Promotion of Sri Lankan manpower

8.1. Introduction

Since migration is primarily a demand-determined market, countries wishing to deploy their workers abroad must be able to seek out prospective employers amidst the competition from other labour-sending countries. Thus marketing is the lifeblood of any overseas employment programme.

Marketing is the management process responsible for identifying, anticipating, and satisfying customer requirements for profitably. Hence, the Labour Welfare Officer must take special efforts to promote Sri Lankan labour under the supervision and authority of the Head of Mission.

8.2 Objective

According to the SLBFE Act (Section 22a), the promoting of job opportunities is one of the main responsibilities of the Labour representatives appointed to Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions. On the diplomatic front, Labour Section officers shall take an active role in determining and guiding policies and programmes that promote overseas employment and involve the whole of the marketing process, including identifying the market, satisfying the customers by meeting their requirements, and fulfilling profitability to both parties.

In this setup, Labour Welfare Officials should act as information focal points and dissemination centres for promotional and communication materials. They should also conduct door-to-door visits of prospective clients.

8.3 Strategies to promote Sri Lankan manpower

- i. Labour Section officials should study and familiarize themselves with the Corporate Plan, Marketing Plan, and Action Plan developed by the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion and Welfare/SLBFE.
- ii. Prepare labour-receiving country profiles in order to have information available on the labour, economy, and immigration policies of these countries. Periodically update this information.
- iii. Collect information from trade journals, regional economic magazines, and National Development Plans of the host country.
- iv. Assist the Marketing Division of the SLBFE by sending monthly "Market Situation Reports", using the information gathered from the above sources.
- v. Conduct meetings and discuss matters directly with the relevant officials of the host country and the human resource development officers of private sector companies, using these opportunities to educate them on the skills and manpower ability of Sri Lankans.
- vi. Arrange marketing Missions/seminars for SLBFE/Ministry officials and coordinate and contribute at ministerial level meetings.
- vii. Facilitate Sri Lankan licensed foreign employment agencies in arranging meetings with the host country representatives or industry associations.
- viii. Collaborate with host country agencies and the SLBFE for recruitment and skills training programmes.
- ix. Assist the SLBFE to disseminate information in the host country on Sri Lankan workers through press releases, promotional articles, skills profiles of Sri Lankan workers, etc.
- x. Build up mailing lists of different target sectors in the host country and organize direct mailing campaigns.
- xi. Assist in maintaining a market information service at the SLBFE to share with home country recruitment agencies.
- xii. Relay the job opportunities appearing in the mass media of the host country to the SLBFE for dissemination among job aspirants.
- xiii. Report labour market developments, policy changes on migrant workers, and details of country plans to the SLBFE for planning purposes.

9. Conducting welfare/recreation programmes for Sri Lankan workers

9.1 Introduction

Migrant workers greatly need opportunities to engage in welfare and recreation programmes in order to overcome the stress, loneliness, and physiological setbacks of being away from loved ones and their country of birth. Extending assistance to enhance opportunities for such welfare and recreation activities can be treated as a part of the duties of the Labour Welfare Officer in a Mission.

9.2 Authority

- i. SLBFE Act No.21/1985 (Sec.22b) on responsibilities of SLBFE representatives at Overseas Missions

9.3 Guidelines

- i. Representation in the Committees of Welfare Associations of Sri Lankan community members.
- ii. Extend assistance in organising different community activities such as cultural shows or competitions among the children of migrant workers in the host country.
- iii. Organize skills development programmes for migrant workers and residents of safe houses.
- iv. Take an active role in national/religious events organized by the Mission.
- v. Organize different cultural programmes for factory workers, especially in the manufacturing sector (e.g., garment factories).
- vi. Officers should not become involved with commercial transactions through conducting welfare programmes.
- vii. An equal share of participation by different Sri Lankan communities must be encouraged at welfare programmes.

Labour officials must always consult the Head of Mission prior to organizing/participating in welfare and recreation programmes for Sri Lanka migrant workers.

10. Financial procedures applicable to the Labour Sections of SLBFE

10.1 Introduction

With the commencement of Job order approval and registration of individual service contracts of female domestic workers at the Sri Lankan Diplomatic Missions in 1997, the fund collection and registrations were channelled to the Workers Welfare Fund (WWF) of the SLBFE through the Government Treasury. In 2012, according to the request made by the Ministry of Foreign Employment Promotion and Welfare, the Treasury approval has been given to SLBFE to open separate bank accounts for the labour sections in diplomatic missions. Accordingly with the concurrence of the Ministry of External Affairs, all labour sections in diplomatic missions have opened a separate bank account. Therefore at present all revenues and expenditure are accounted through the newly opened bank account in all labour sections.

10.2. Objective

The objective of the new system is to minimize delays in payments and ensure smooth operations of accounting and transfer of funds between the SLBFE and labour section in Diplomatic Missions.

10.3 Authority

The required authority has been granted for the new financial and accounting procedures through the under mentioned Acts/Circulars
